

TOWN'S CHARM BEST DISCOVERED BY WALKING

Strolling through Provincetown is the only way to really see the great beauty and variety of the town, a small portion of which is seen in the above photo taken on Commercial Street, just a few blocks from the center of town. Here in this small section of the front street are interesting shops; the spire showing above the tree tops is the old Methodist Church, now the wonderful Chrysler Art Museum; a number of fine guest houses, including the one whose only feature shown above, unfortunately is the sign. For the Southern Mansion is one of the loveliest houses to be found in Provincetown. Built over 100 years ago by a whaling captain, it is now presided over by Bill Griffin, a gentleman from Georgia, who features in his elegant dining room, true deep South cooking, and the best of New England foods, too.
