

July 19, 1956

Adjoining Grozier Park, (so-called), beautiful home, No. 165 Commercial Street. Spacious grounds, open view of harbor, central heat, hardwood floors. Ideal location for home or business. Includes furnishings. Robert A. Welsh, Attorney for Phebe E. Freeman. Telephone 76 or 539.

January 1957

Freeman Property Sold

The large shoreside house and land at 165 Commercial Street, former home of Miss Phebe Freeman, adjoining Grozier Park has been sold to Mrs. Eilena Winter of Westfield by Judge Robert A. Welsh, attorney for Miss Freeman,

- March 1918 -

The following resolution was passed at the annual Town Meeting held in Provincetown, Feb. 11, 1918. Whereas: Mr. E. A. Grozier, Editor of the Boston Post, and Mr. J. J. Martin, of Boston, raised a fund of nearly $25,000.00 for the support of the widows and orphans of fishermen, who lost their lives in the gale last Summer; therefore be it resolved: That we, the citizens of Provincetown in Town Meeting assembled, by a rising vote, tender to Mr. E. A. Grozier and to Mr. J. J. Martin our heartfelt appreciation and gratitude for their kindly and successful efforts in raising so large an amount for the families so sadly and suddenly bereaved.

- March 8, 1963 -

Mrs. Helen D. Grozier, Former Owner Of Boston Post, Dies In Winchester

Mrs. Helen D. (Doherty) Grozier, 66, former owner of the Boston Post, and widow of publisher Richard Grozier, died last Friday at the Winchester Hospital after a short illness. She was born in Woburn, daughter of the late James and Anne Doherty, and was educated in Woburn schools. She was a graduate of the Waltham Nurses Training School and served as private nurse for Mrs. Mary Grozier, first wife of the late publisher, until her death.

In 1934 she married Mr. Grozier, and the couple had three children, Richard of Winchester, and John and Mary of Cambridge. Mr. Grozier left the Boston Post to his wife when he died in 1946, and she was owner and publisher until she sold the paper to John Fox in 1952.

Also surviving are four brothers, James, Leo, Edward and William of Woburn; and five sisters, Irene and Gertrude of Cambridge and Mrs. Madeline Marshall, Mrs. Anne Roche and Mrs. Adaline Martin, all of Woburn.

Funeral services were held yesterday at St. Peter's Church, Cambridge, and interment was in Calvary Cemetery, Woburn.

The Grozier family had spent many summers at the family homestead at 160 Commercial Street.

Scene taken from opposite the Grozier Estate (cupola, center) - September 1952 - The building at left is the Nautilus Club, and opposite to left of house with Piazza is Atlantic Avenue. "Mansion" with cupola is the estate of Edwin Atkins Grozier, once owner of The Boston Post (see a story of his life with The Wreck of the Somerset in back of this book at Peaked Hill Bars. Next house is that of painter, George Elmer Browne who also had a studio on back street. The house of Frank Barnett, a selectman of the town, corner Central Street. The new First National Bank. The home of Phoebe Freeman, schoolteacher, right. Althea's "means of transportation" - her bicycle - can be seen waiting patiently beside the lamppost.