BALES OF POT WASH ASHORE

It's been one long, lost weekend. Who, what, where, when and why are all in doubt and we write, as it were, from on high.

Gathering our wits together, we see it all began when a small boy and his dog took an early morning walk on the beach. Jimmy Jones, 6, and dog Camillio started out at the Flyship. When they reached Pepe's, they stumbled upon some 100 big bales that were very firmly wrapped in burlap and covered by plastic.

Having sniffed the bales, Camillo tore one open. He sampled the bales' contents, the finest marijuana ever seen on the cape and still dry. Then he began to bark and dance with an abandon dogs have long since given up. Saturday's early morning idyll, a Norman Rockwell tableau of young boy and dog, faded. Within some fifteen minutes, virtually all of Provincetown's heterogeneous population had arrived on the beach.

By twelve, high noon had come to the town. Citizens resembled nothing so much as the figures who people Hieronymus Bosch's Garden of Earthly Delights. Nude or in various stages of undress, they cavorted under pilings, attempted to make their way into seashells, or under the sand, and on — yes, walking on — the waters. All the while, some chattered, others chanted and still others were comatose or confined themselves to an occasional, remarkably uninteresting "wow."

Of course, there were some who did not lose their wits entirely. Displaying the spirit that made this nation great, some did manage to arrange for the bales transport to safer, less public, sites; and others rapidly set up stands that purveyed pipes, papers, et al., and not to be left holding the bag, lawyers shrewdly considered future consequences, politicians the town's image and therapists the town's head.

But few cared to listen to them.

Instead, most citizens resembled the grasshopper more than the ant. If any industry was shown, it was in pursuit of pleasure. While senior citizens made mud pies with mad

Blessing Of The Feet 1980

Sunday's warmth and sunny skies kicked off Provincetown's two-day celebration of the annual Blessing of the Feet. Arch Bishop Shues led the parade, unfortunately on crutches (He lost his footing while saying mass earlier in the week at Fall River.)

The parade began at Motta's football field and wound its ceremonious way to McMillan's wharf via St. Mary of the Immaculate Feet. Hundreds of barefoot marchers — fishermen, shopkeepers, waiters, bartenders, tourists — and even special interest groups, the P-town Podiatrists, and 41 members of the newly formed Club Feet organization, lined P-town's streets.

At the wharf, white, tan, yellow and black feet dangled from cars, trucks, carriages, boats and mopeds. There were children's feet, artists' feet, dancers' feet, athletes' feet. . . Except for the vegetarians from Wellfleet, all ate foot long hot dogs whilst Provincetown's own jug band played Tiptoe Through The Tulips. Some lovers, meanwhile, played footsie.

The blessing itself — a P-town tradition since 1602 — went

Who Cares

To the Editor:

I don't usually write letters. I don't care that my neighbor totally disregards the leash law (even if her dog is on my lawn every morning), or if a selectman parks all day on the pier (although what gives him any special privileges over the rest of us?), but I CANNOT remain silent after reading that disgusting article, "Nixon and Rebozo — Just Pals?" published in your last issue.

Comparing our ex-President with our ex-FBI chief of 45 years is ridiculous. Mr. Hoover may have always lived with a man and never a woman (although that doesn't prove anything!) but President Nixon is married with two wonderful children!

Besides, Mr. Rebozo HAS been linked with a woman since 1950. Life Magazine (7-31-70) calls him a "lady's man" and says he has publicly dated "auburn haired, twice divorced Jane Lucke, a 35-ish mother of two who lives with her mother in Key Biscayne". He even brought her to the White House once and "she was seated at the President's right for dinner"!

So what if a local restaurateur and his daughter saw the two old friends walking together arm in arm on a Florida beach when Mr. Nixon was Vice President? How can you insinuate anything but "just pals"?

The next thing we know, you'll be saying that Linda is just a cover for Jerry Brown's real sexual preference. Really!!!

See Ted Run

To the editor:

For security reasons my campaign plans for the upcoming election has seriously been curtailed. I am planning instead to campaign for 2 weeks this summer in Provincetown, staying at a different guest house or motel each night, meeting the different types of Americans that are attracted by your town from all parts of the country each day.

See you soon,
Ted (the Senator)
Kennedy

No Shit

To the Editor:

I've been coming to Provincetown for a month every summer for the last twelve years. In the past few years, the problem of dog doo has really become disgusting. (I've already stepped in it three times today.) You should follow the example set by New York City, where they do pick up their dog doo. Legislation is long overdue!

SELECTMEN TO VOTE

Casino Gambling For The Heritage

As fiery debates continue to rage throughout the town, Selectmen will vote Monday night on legalizing casino gambling for the ailing Heritage Museum.

The town purchased the building in 1976 to prevent it from becoming a "rubber chicken complex". Since that time, it has become just one more burden for Provincetown taxpayers. The cost to paint the exterior alone is slightly over $300,000 and the hope that it would be a self-sustaining proposition through admission charges, benefits, programs and a small museum shop has not been realized.

As resort towns all over the country watch the success of gambling in Atlantic City, there are those in Provincetown who feel their towns-people and tourists should drop some bucks at home, rather than go elsewhere.

The natural argument against such an endeavor is the attraction of organized crime and questionable characters flocking to Provincetown. So far, one trustee of the Heritage Museum has resigned, so as not to link his heritage to nationality prejudices and have the vote go against gambling.

"CHIPS" (Committee Helping Improve Provincetown Services) has endorsed gambling — with restrictions. Keeping the original concept of the Museum and the taxpayers' plight in mind, they have suggested only three slot machines be installed on the model of the Rose Dorthea. Other ideas include the conversion of the Harry Kemp Shack to a change booth and the table from the old library to a roulette table. They believe this would help keep costs at a minimum, while still maintaining the decorum of the Museum. They have also pointed out that different benefits in town have been successful for raising money with "Casino Gambling Night".

All interested persons are asked to attend the Selectmen's meeting to voice their opinions.

A Tree For All

A most fitting memorial was dedicated last Saturday to Frances Euler. Before she died a few years ago, Mrs. Euler had been deeply involved in planting trees to enhance our town. One of her favorites was the Cedrus Atlanticus Glauca (Blue Atlas Cedar), which grows successfully in this area. To continue her work and commemorate her memory, A Tree For Francis Fund was started.

The choice was easy. A forty foot Blue Atlas Cedar was selected and planted atop the 252 foot Provincetown Monument, where all can admire its beauty.

The total cost of such an endeavor was high, almost $30,000. The money was raised by the Re-Greening of Provincetown Committee from donations by hundreds of townspeople and friends..

The Re-Greening Committee wishes to thank each and every person who helped make this memorial possible. Anyone interested in helping the Committee continue their work or needs assistance in planting is urged to contact them.

CAPE MITCH HOWARD COOK

MUSSELS WHIRLPOOL

- 4 dozen mussels*
- ¼ cup olive oil
- ½ cup dry white wine
- 2 oz. dry lemon powder
- 3 cloves of garlic

Take 4 dozen uncleaned mussels and put them in your washing machine. ** Wash for 8 minutes using the cold water cycle and no detergent. Remove; clean the machine of scum. Place mussels back into the machine adding olive oil, wine, lemon powder and garlic. Turn machine on to "very hot" for 10 minutes. Spin dry for 30 seconds to reduce broth. Serve with a sprinkle of freshly chopped parsley.

*Mussels can be picked off the rocks of the breakwater or purchased in local fish markets for under a dollar a pound.

**If you don't own a washing machine (or didn't have room in the car for it when packing for your vacation), there are two laundromats in town. One is located on Shank Painter Road, the other in the parking lot next to the A&P.

STUFFED PEAS

Boil or steam one lb. green peas. Mix ½ cup lemon grass oil (oil distilled from the leaves of the lemon grasses which grow in the tropics), ½ teaspoon garlic powder, and one teaspoon dry mustard. Put the mixture in a blender for about one minute. Fill a hypodermic syringe with the mixture and inject each pea. Be careful not to overfill.

Note — for those who have developed a yen for it, pure heroin may be substituted for the dry mustard. Caution — no more than six peas should be eaten at any meal or you may O.D.

HERMIT CRABS

(German cookery). Any lousy cook will have no difficulty making this dish.

I have never bought crabs; they were always given to me by a friend who caught them. They can be purchased at almost any fishmarket, plentiful during the mating season.

Wash live crabs in cold running water to remove all hair. Plunge crabs into large pot with 2 inches of boiling water, one teaspoon of piranate A-200. Cover, steam for about 15 min. until shells turn a firecracker red. Refrigerate for an hour before serving.

off without a hitch. Under foot were more than 1,000 who received the blessing from the Arch (no pun) Bishop. Standing in for her husband, Barbara Sylva showed up with Captain Johnny Sylva's boots. She said that Sylva, skipper of the Bard B'Dull, was "too drunk" to get out of bed.

Other drunks were not, unfortunately, as laid back. P-town police were obliged to arrest nine who were far too footloose and fancy free with the town's fair ladies. But this incident aside, everyone put his best foot forward and danced far into the night at the feast held at the High School cafeteria.

A senior citizen, veteran of 62 blessings, tripped on a foot long at the dance and several other revellers (at last count four) claimed to have received Toemaine poisoning at the dinner. (Filet of Sole and Corns-le-maison). This means that the Town, which foots the bill for this annual fete, will be knee-deep in claims and counter-claims but this, everyone agreed, is all in the spirit and tradition of P-town, and even a blessing in disguise. What else can the town's three lawyers do in the slack winter season?

abandon, younger citizens made each other. No shame, no self-consciousness, here. A true garden, or rather beach, of earthly delights.

Pausing amid so much pleasure, young and old would observe the intricate design of a seashell, the sound of the mild surf. Seagulls, like so many erratic stunt fliers, reeled about them. The birds had mistook the marijuana for birdseed and like our canine friends, all of P-town's cats, the horses from Nelson's stables, a few pet hamsters and rabbits, they were never happier.

By the time police arrived, no one remembered what the blue uniform signified and few bales still remained intact. Most had by then been carried away and citizenry, together with animals, kept on smoking (or chewing).

Under the circumstances, police were confused. Unable to hit upon the proper procedure to follow, they tried instead the merchandise at hand. Soon they too did not worry overmuch about the origin or destination of the bales. Unfortunately, however, they did not worry about the town either and there were a number of robberies in town during the course of the sunny afternoon.

It was only on Sunday — sometime in late afternoon — that order returned to Provincetown. Now, when an investigation was underway, the town seemed deserted. Reliable sources say that many left for Canada with a carload of marijuana and many more were busy hiding what they had been able to haul away from the beach.

Police chief J. Deeds puts the original cache at 100 bales, some 3,000 tons, and worth a conservative 8 million dollars in the street. According to Deeds the Coast guard did discover a Florida registered boat beyond the point. It is believed that this boat carried the marijuana. But its crew, or the appearance of its cargo on the beach, is still a mystery.

Pending further investigation, Deeds and the few other town officials this reporter could reach refused further comment.

Red Wine & Fish — a No No

According to a report in Texas Parks and Wildlife, a disgruntled employe of a wine producer in the town of Nuits-Saint-Georges, Côte-d'Or, in the Burgundy district of France, decided to sabotage the boss by sluicing some $600,000 worth of premier cru down the sewer drain.

The story is already sad enough for fanciers of good (but not great) Côtes de Nuits, but it has an environmentally sad ending, too. Thousands of fish were killed by the oenopollution, as far as twelve miles down the Muzin River.

What kind of Frenchman is it who doesn't know that red wine goes badly with fish?

Luis Ramon Flores, a 39-year-old seaman, was in serious condition in a hospital yesterday after being stabbed in the forehead by a 440-pound swordfish.
Jose Rodriguez, owner of the fishing boat "Graciela," said Flores was boating it speared him on one of its leaps.
Flores was taken to the hospital Periferico De Pariata with the cut-off sword still protruding from his forehead.

THE FISH THAT KILLED A SEAGULL

Brixham, England
Members of a yacht club say they saw a fish kill a seagull.
They said when the bird dived Wednesday to grab a fish in Brixham Harbor, the fish grabbed the seagull, pulled it beneath the water and drowned it.

Shark's nudge saves three men on a raft

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.
— Three men who spent five days adrift in the Atlantic in a tiny rubber raft said yesterday they have a shark to thank for their rescue.
They said the shark bumped the raft while they were asleep, rousing them in time to see a passing freighter.

LOCAL BOY MAKES GOOD...GIRL

LaRue dressing up

The old saying, "Boys will be boys", is not always true. Sometimes, if the pay is high enough and the working conditions right, boys will, on the contrary, be girls. These are the "men" who comprise one of the smallest and most amazing subdivisions of the theatrical arts—the female impersonator. And one of the most successful in the country today, Lorno LaRue, hails Provincetown as his home.

LaRue, who has just completed his second and soon to be released motion picture, is opening Saturday night for a special two week engagement at the Mud Era Room on Commercial Street. This will be Lorno's first professional appearance in his hometown, though not the first time he has graced our stages. A graduate of Provincetown's Class of 69, he was an active member of the Theater Department there. He fondly remembers his drama coach, Mr. James Brazzi, who cast him in his first female role.

"It was Shakespeare's 'Merchant of Venice'," reminisces LaRue, "and Mr. Brazzi wanted it produced in true Elizabethan fashion. Boys were cast for all female roles then because for centuries it was considered sinful for women to appear on stage. You should have seen my Portia", chuckles LaRue. "After that Mr. Brazzi decided to do one all male play a year. In my senior year, I played Electra."

LaRue, whose mother and sister still reside on West Vine Street, has the physique of a full back, and indeed, did play that position during high school. But most recently he has been playing clubs, touring with his act and is scheduled to reopen at New York's Copacabana on September 30th.

Meanwhile, welcome home, Lorno!

APPLETONS' JOURNAL

[SEPTEMBER 4, 1869.]

EFFECTS OF HASHISH.

I HAVE often taken the drug, rather for curiosity to discover what its attractions might be, than for aught of pleasurable excitement I ever experienced. The taste of the potion is exactly what a mixture of milk, sugar, pounded black pepper, and a few spices would produce. The first result is a contraction of the nerves of the throat, which is any thing but agreeable. Presently the brain becomes affected; you feel an extraordinary lightness of head, as it were; your sight settles upon one object, obstinately refusing to abandon it; your other senses become unusually acute—uncomfortably sensible—and you feel a tingling which shoots like an electric shock down your limbs till it voids itself through the extremities. You may stand in the burning sunshine without being conscious of heat, and every sharp pain is instantly dulled. Your cautiousness and your reflective organs are painfully stimulated; you fear every thing and everybody, even the man who shared the cup with you, and the servant who prepared it; you suspect treachery everywhere, and in the simplest action detect objects the most complexly villainous. Your thoughts become wild and incoherent, your fancy runs frantic. If you happen to exceed a little, the confusion of your ideas and the disorder of your imagination will become intense. I recollect on one occasion being persuaded that my leg was revolving upon its knee as an axis, and could distinctly feel as well as hear it strike against and pass through the shoulder during each revolution. Any one may make you suffer agony by simply remarking that a particular limb must be in great pain, and you catch at every hint thrown out to you, nurse it and cherish it with a fixed and morbid eagerness that savors strongly of insanity. This state is a very dangerous one, especially to a novice; madness and catalepsy being by no means uncommon terminations to it. If an assembly are under the influence of the drug, and a single individual happen to cough or to laugh, the rest, no matter how many, are sure to follow his example. The generally used restoratives are a wineglassful of pure lemon-juice, half a dozen cucumbers eaten raw, and a few puffs of the hookah; you may conceive the state of your unhappy stomach after the reception of these remedies. Even without them you generally suffer from severe indigestion, for, during the intoxication, the natural hunger which the hashish produces excites you to eat a supper sufficient for two days with ordinary circumstances.

By Captain E. Burton.

The unitary system of the picture becomes expressive of stability, fullness, and completeness as subject matter.

ONE MAN SCULPTURE SHOW. .WOW!

Dane Handsome's 'On The Beach'

By May Greenberg

Your reviewer stood at the Art Ass studying a Dane Handsome sculpture called On The Beach. Peering at the life-size polyester and fiberglass figures — two women, one in a bikini, the other nearly nude, and a pot-bellied man who clutched a beer can — I felt I actually knew these people. They looked as real as my friends!

Asking, 'Was this art? Was this truth?' I scribbled furiously in my notebook. But suddenly, I felt I was being watched and looking up, I was face to face with one of those tourists who wander into the Art ASS because the tide is out. "Oh," gasped this particular lady as she dropped her straw basket, "I thought you were a statue! You look just like the others."

My reverie broken, I beat a hasty retreat but later on, I realized the lady said a mouthful. She'll never see critics or, for that matter, art in the same old ways. Now she'll ask — as so many in the P-town community are asking — is it art or is it life?

This question was on everybody's lips at Dane Handsome's opening on Friday night. The Art Ass was jammed! Photographer Horma Nolt could not snap pictures fast enough and though he tried hard, director Zero Cosy could not be everywhere at once. So busy were these two that, when last seen, they were stretched out fanning themselves and being carefully considered by the maestro himself as his very next subject for immortal life in polyester resin and fiberglass.

Said Dane Handsome, "Put yourself in the place of a guy who washes dishes day in and day out — one who doesn't have many aspirations except to get high. Or Cozy here, who hangs out in his bar night after night. . . How would you feel?" Such are the questions Handsome asks, and his art provokes.

Looking at some of the show stoppers, On The Beach, Dishwasher, Shankpainter Laundromat (how world weary the housewife with her laundry bundles!), Crown and Ache (what poignancy in the chains that the young Adonis carries and how worn his leather belt!) and Fisherman (what dignity to the old man of the sea!), we see this our P-town life so much more realistically.

"I am," Handsome told us, "a realist. But now I've dropped all elements of commentary [a reference to his earlier, violent social protest, Accident, War, Riot, and so on] and now I let people find their own attitude. I don't compose, but rather let them suggest a posture."

About one year, six months and three days ago — at 12:14 p.m. — Handsome began using vinyl substances for the arms and faces of the sculptures. He says the vinyl allows the light to enter more easily than the polyester resin and fiberglass, looks more fleshy and is less fragile. This allows him more realistically to implant hairs in the head and the arms.

"People think you can just pour the stuff over somebody and take the mold out and put it together and that's it, that's it. Well, you can't. You have to doctor it up. That's where the artistry comes in. Sometimes a hand looks frightening or dead, you know. And it's got to look relaxed. If I get a stiff hand, I can relax it because I just saw it off and put it on a better way."

Ever the realist, Handsome also assembles his sculptures so that one arm is left detachable. That way, clothing can be removed and laundered — a necessity when, as with this our Art Ass show, the work will eventually travel on to 466 cities here and abroad.

But what of Dane Handsome himself? Being a true artist, he's naturally ambivalent about his success. He is bugged but he is also rich. As a result, he has plenty of time for images of grubbiness and sweat, of those people who "have fought the battle of life," to grow in his mind. He thinks creatively about working class people and when possible, he tries to see them first hand at the Dairy Queen or one of our local emporiums.

For the rest, he's on the beach with somebody's lovely wife and two lovely children, his Florida neighbors. They'll be with us till fall when, like so many true artists, Dane Handsome will drop his mistress at her husband's home and resume life with the one true love of his life — his work.
